For Ages 3 and Older

Batteries: Requires 6 (six) 1.5V AA batteries. (Batteries not included.)

*Batteries must be installed before the doll will speak or become interactive.

As the batteries lose their charge with time, the doll's functions slow down and eventually stop. Please change batteries in a timely fashion when this happens.

If you do not plan to play with the doll for a long time, switch the sound module to "OFF."

Battery installation and replacement:

Take the cover off the battery compartment

Insert the new AA batteries. Make sure that the (+) and (-) signs are properly aligned. Use alkaline batteries for longer use.

Replace the cover on the battery compartment.

Switch the sound module to "ON."

(This is found on the doll's back.)

Phrase List (Words and questions that the doll responds to):

Hello!

Where are you from?

Tell me a story.

Sing me a song.

Are you a fashion girl?

Do you have pets?

Am I pretty?

Do you like school?

Good-bye!

I love you.

Yes

No

CAUTION:

Before giving to a child, please

CUT AND REMOVE ALL PLASTIC ATTACHMENTS

The doll turns her head automatically. DO NOT TURN AND/OR HOLD THE DOLL'S HEAD BY FORCE—the electronic and mechanical components will be damaged.

DO NOT shake, hit or forcefully squeeze the doll.

DO NOT leave the doll near a heat source, in direct sunlight, or where it is excessively humid.

Remove batteries if the doll will not be in use for a long time.

If the doll does not operate properly, please replace the batteries.

Recommendations:

Play with the doll in the absence of extraneous sounds.

For better phrase recognition, keep the doll at a close distance while playing.

Use your natural voice while speaking to the doll—phrases and commands should be clear and articulate, otherwise they will not be properly recognized.

Start the next command AFTER the doll has finished speaking. THE DOLL DOES NOT RECOGNIZE COMMANDS/PHRASES WHILE SHE IS SPEAKING.

Please note: The doll's sound recognition component is in her torso/belly.

If you are in a loud environment, directing your voice towards the sound recognition component is helpful.

Pausing Ask Amy's Speech

There is a reset button on the left side of the doll's torso. (On your right, if you are facing her.) If the doll is speaking and you want her to stop, or you want to give her a different command, press this button. Her speech will pause until you say your new command.

Answering Ask Amy's Questions

When the doll asks, "What do you want to do first, sing a song or I'll tell you a story?" you can choose between these two options, and Ask Amy™ will either sing or recite a story according to your answer. Alternatively, if you do not want to hear a song or a story, you can ask the doll a different question at this time and she will respond to the new command.

Please note, Ask Amy™ rotates through a variety of different songs, stories and tongue-twisters. She will not repeat the same song or story twice in a row. She sings 9 songs and tells 6 different stories/nursery rhymes. She also sings 2 lullabies, and includes singing the ABCs or "One-Two-Buckle-My-Shoe" in her response when you ask, "Do you like school?"

Turning the Doll Upside-Down

The doll will automatically make one of several comments about her position and/or giggle when you turn her upside-down. Turning her upside-down is another way to change her speech or singing without pressing the reset button.

When you turn her right-side-up, she will comment again.

Saying Good-Bye

If you say "good-bye" to Ask Amy,™ she will ask you if you're going to sleep. If you say yes, she will sing you a lullaby, and then close her eyes and make snoring sounds. If you say no, she will also say good-bye and go into sleep mode.

Ask Amy™ does all of the following things:

Speaks and answers questions

Sings, laughs and recites poems, nursery rhymes and tongue-twisters

Tells stories

Blinks her eyes

Moves her lips

Turns her head
